The Columbian.

VOL. 26 BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JANUARY 16, 1891. NO. 3

MORE KIND WORDS.

BENTON Jan. 9, 1891.

EDS. COLUMBIAN:

Gentlemen.—Allow me to congratulate you on the enlargement of your paper which means "advancing with the times." With best wishes for your future. I remain respectfully.

J. G. MCHENRY.

OMAHA, NEB. Jan. 7, 1891.

THE COLUMBIAN:

Permit me to express my admiration of your new face and form. Much as we liked you before we shall like you better in the future, and that you may not cease coming to us week by week we enclose check to pay your way. May this and future years bring you prosperity and a large list of subscribers which you now deserve more than ever, is the wish of

Your Old Friend

LOUIS ZAHNER.

JERSEYTOWN, PA. Jan. 5, 1891.

ELWELL & BITTENBENDER,

My dear Sirs:—Please accept my congratulations on the appearance of your paper. It is certainly an impovement.

Yours truly

W. C. JOHNSTON.

The COLUMBIAN came out last week in an enlarged form of eight pages, and a change of type, both of which add materially to its appearance.—Tablet.

The Bloomsburg COLUMBIAN, that old stand-by of the Columbia county Democracy, has been enlarged and changed to six-column quarto and is very much improved all around.—Sullivan Review.

The Bloomsburg COLUMBIAN is now an eight-page paper and greatly improved as a newspaper, and makes a neat appearance. The proprietors could, however, creditably retire some of its display type.—Shickshinny Echo.

The Bloomsburg COLUMBIAN comes to us this week changed from a folio to a quarto, printed on new type and very much improved in appearance. It is a good reliable Democratic paper. "Long may it wave."—Wyoming Democrat.

The Bloomsburg COLUMBIAN, edited and published by Elwell & Bittenbender, commences 1891 in a handsome new dress. The issue before us is No. 1 of Volume 26. The form is changed from four to eight pages and the make-up is attractive, while progress and enterprise are clearly stamped upon every page. Its patrons should, as undoubtedly they do, feel proud of it.—Towanda Reporter Journal.

The Bloomsburg COLUMBIAN has discarded the old blanket form and appeared last week in the same shape as the Mail—eight pages, six columns to the page—which is indeed a wonderful improvement. It comes out also with a new dress of type and looks as neat and rosy as a sweet girl with her ball dress on. The COLUMBIAN is the oldest paper in Columbia county, and ranks among the best weeklies in the State.—Hughesville Mail.

The Bloomsburg COLUMBIAN has been much improved in contents and mechanical appearance It is now an eight page paper, with six columns to the page, the size and style of the Record. Its outside pages have been given a new dress, while its makeup is a great improvement over the old style. The publishers feel a just pride in their excellent paper and well they may. With last week's issue that journal began the twenty-sixth year of its existence and is the oldest and most reliable Democratic paper in Columbia county. Long may the COLUMBIAN continue to flourish.—Milton Record.

The plans for the Tube Works have been received and adopted, and there is no doubt about the location of the works here. The plans were made by an architect in Waterbury, Conn. The building will be 80 by 150 feet, with a brick stack 75 to 80 feet in height. It will present a fine appearance, being located in a new part of the town with a view unobstructed. It will be diagonally across the canal from the Electric Light Works. This enterprise will employ men, most of whom will be skilled workmen, and this will bring many new families to town. There will soon be a demand for houses, as there is scarcely a vacant house in town.

Mrs. Allen Mann of Beaver township died last week Friday. Her funeral took place on Monday. Her husband died several years ago.

CENTRALIA.

Philip Keller Esq. of Ashland is seriously ill. His many friends hope for his speedy recovery.

Judge Murphy is interested in the new National Bank to be started at Bloomsburg.

The friends of John P. Hannon were much disappointed at his failure to secure the appointment as commissioners' clerk.

Mr. Cray who was so seriously burned by gas at the Centralia colliery recently is much improved and strong hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Joseph H. Dawes is recovering from the injuries received by him at Centralia Colliery.

The Ashland Local of last week prints the following:

Mr. Alex McDonnell, and Miss Ellen Rooney, two of our most popular young folks were united in marriage at St. Ignatius Catholic Church on Tuesday morning. by Rev. Father Patterson, of Ashland, and Rev. Father Simpson of town. A. J. Timlin of Ashland was groomsman and Miss Griffin of Philadelphia, was brides maid. Miss Mary E. O'Connor presided at the organ. The ceremony was performed with High Mass and was witness d by a large number of relatives and friends. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell were driven to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was held, attended by a large number of invited guests who extended to the newly married couple their hearty congratulations.

Why does not somebody send THE COLUMBIAN the news from Centralia every week. It has a large circulation here, and we know the editors will be glad to print the news from here if they can get it. Send it in, and they will put it in shape for publication.

CORPORATION ELECTIONS.

The stockholders of the Bloomsburg & Sullivan R. R. Company held their annual election on Tuesday, January 13th. The following persons were elected Directors: Morton McMichael, Samuel Wigfall, J. H. Kershow, Henry C. Gibson, J. K. Grotz, W. R. Tubbs, William Neal, H. J. Conner.

Swank; Vice President, I. A. DeWitt; Secretary. A. W. Spear; Treasurer, George Conner; Executive Committee. Lafayette Creasy, George Conner.

WALLER

The funeral of Henry Sitler was very largly attended. He was 56 years old and leaves a wife and four children three of whom are married. Rev. S. I. Shortess preached the funeral sermon.

We are informed that Boyd Richie has taken two more boarders as a new years present.

The protracted meeting at this place has grown into an earnest revival. About twenty penitents presented themselves last week, and the church is now crowded every night. As the meeting has just merely commenced many more, no doubt, will yet turn from their evil ways and live for the good that they may do.

The Angel of Death has again appeared in our midst and taken Jacob Hirleman's youngest child. The funeral took place on Sunday. Rev. S. P. Boone conducted the services.

The lumbermen are wishing for some warm weather to take off some of the snow. There can be but very little done in the mountains now and it throws several out of work around here.

A great many railroad ties are being made and hauled to Benton this winter from this section. When the timber is gone and it certainly will be soon, the farmers will have to look out for something else to do in the winter; or perhaps the taxes will be lowered by that time and then it will not be necessary for them to work every day, both summer and winter.

AMERICAN MECHANICS.

The members of Bloomsburg Council, O. U. A. M., entertained their brethren of Montour Council, of Danville, and a few members of the Catawissa Council, on Tuesday evening. The visiting brethren arrived on the 6:36 train, and were met at the depot by a committee and escorted to the lodge room, where an address of welcome was delivered by Guy Jacoby, Esq. Responses were made by J. P. Bare, Esq., and Mr. Price. After the regular business was disposed of, the members went to the St. Elmo Hotel and partook of a dinner specially prepared by the proprietor, J. L. Girton. One hundred and twenty-three men sat down to the tables, thirty-nine of whom were from Danville, four from Catawissa, one from Pittston, and the others from Bloomsburg. The tables groaned with good things. Roast pig, turkey, lobster, meats, vegetables, and all the delicacies the season affords, were served up in fine style, and all present united in voting Landlord Girton a great success in getting up a meal.

After eating, the party returned to their Hall, where speeches were in order. At 11 o'clock the visitors departed on the Reading, well pleased with their treatment. Bloomsburg Council is the mother of Montour Council.

The Daily News of Lebanon, Pa. has issued an "Industrial Edition" of its enterprising paper. It contains ten large pages and is illustrated with cuts of many industrial establishments, and of prominent citizens. It booms the city of Lebanon, and shows energy and push on the part of its publishers, Messrs. Reinhard & Sharp. Lebanon is a live place, and no doubt this effort on the part of these progressive editors was fully appreciated by the good people who compose its population.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Evans of Berwick learned with profound sorrow of the death of their little son Francis. He was a beautiful and interesting child, and was the pet of the household. The funeral was held on Monday at half past one, the day that he would have been one year old. A number of friends went up from Bloomsburg.

Sarah Noecker died at her residence on Iron street Wednesday morning, 7th inst., at 9 o'clock. The deceased was the mother of Mrs. James C. Sterner and Mrs. Willits, of Bloomsburg; and Mrs. Edward Davies, of Shenandoah. Her age was 70 years and 3 months. The interment took place last Friday morning at Reed Station.

Five sample copies of THE COLUMBIAN were sent to our good friend John C. Wenner of Benton township last week. The result was three new subscribers. Such friends are worth having, and are highly appreciated by us.

The Almanac issued by the Leader of Wilkesbarre, is one of the most complete compilations of past and current events that we have seen. It is an epitome of useful information for all future time. The Leader has our thanks for a copy.

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES.

The new term has opened very auspiciously, with about three hundred in attendance. The number of boarders is greater than last term by about fifteen. On the ladies' side of the dormitory, there are only five rooms unoccupied, while four rooms heretofore not in use have been filled with students. So that if the additional rooms had not been used there would now be about one room vacant. On the gentlemen's side there is only one vacant room.

The trustees have decided to cut up into students' rooms the space heretofore used for other purposes and thus provide for the large number of students that have signified their intention to come in March. According to indications the numbers in the Spring will be overwhelming.

The fact is that the strong additions just made to an already strong faculty, coupled with what the trustees have done in more thoroughly equipping the school, has placed the institution on such a firm footing that people who want to educate their children can't find a school where greater advantages are offered at such low rates. While new teachers, new appliances, new departments and additional comforts have been added to the school, the rates have actually been lowered.

Vice-Principal Coughlin has taken his place in the faculty and seems to enjoy his work as much as his work is enjoyed by the pupils. If he can find a suitable house, it is his desire to move his family to Bloomsburg soon.

Miss Perley, the new model school teacher, has already shown herself to be a master teacher. She seems to understand child nature, and mind development.

The Principal is busy from morning 'till night with his constantly increasing correspondence. Rooms are rapidly being engaged by mail for the Spring term, and there are quite a number engaged for next September. He writes as many as thirty letters a day sometimes. He is at work also upon his new book on Primary Grammar. He is to deliver a lecture at Millville on Saturday evening of this week. Mrs. Welsh will go to Jenkintown, near Philadelphia, in a few weeks to give an evening's reading. She was there about one year ago, and was liked so well that she is called back this year.

The seniors will take their final examination in Psychology under Prof. Welsh next Monday and Tuesday.

Skating was good last week and every student that could muster a pair of skates, and many that couldn't, flocked to the race near the furnace to enjoy that exhilarating sport.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

An adjourned court was held on Saturday, January 10th, at 9 a. m., all the judges present.

The commission of Mordecai Millard as Associate Judge was read, and he was installed into office.

Inquest in partition awarded in estate of Daniel Yocum.

Return of private sale confirmed in estate of J. P. Sands.

W. B. Goodhart vs. W. J. Nungesser with notice, etc., execution against garnishee.

Adjourned to January 19th, at 10 a. m.

Towanda, with a population of 4200, has free mail delivery. Bloomsburg, with 4750 people, goes to the postoffice for its mail. What's the matter with our having free mail delivery here? Why can't we have it, as well as smaller towns?

The testimony in the suit between the D. L. & R. R. Co. and the Bloomsburg Belt R. R. Co. concerning the crossing below town, makes 375 pages of printed matter. The case will be argued before R. R. Little, Master, on the 23rd inst.

LIGHT STREET.

Mr. Johnson, of Michigan, visited at Alfred Irvin's this week.

Jacob Girard spent a short time in the city during the first of the year.

A surprise party was given at the residence of Chas. Lee, Jr., last week. Amongst the numerous guest were C. C. Trench and family, of Bloomsburg.

A. C. Hidlay drove a new turn-out on Saturday last.

D. L. Everhart was in town recently looking as well as ever, with the exception of advanced age.

Mrs. W. W. Crawford spent a few days at home with her mother, Mrs. Geo. Hartman, of Espy.

Frank Croup moved on the farm lately occupied by Harry Townsend last week.

ACTION OF THE BAR ON THE DEATH OF WILLIAM E. SMITH, ESQ.

The following paper was presented in the Court on Saturday, January 10:

To the Honorable the Judges of the Courts of Columbia County.

A special meeting of the members of the Bar of Columbia County was held at the office of Geo. E. Elwell at the call of Col. J. G. Freeze, President of the Bar Association on Tuesday evening, January 6, 1891, for the purpose of taking appropriate action on the death of William E. Smith, Esq., of Berwick, a practicing attorney in these courts, which occurred on Monday the 4th inst. at noon. The chair appointed as a committee on resolutions, Geo. E. Elwell, C. C Peacock and Robert Buckingham. On motion of J. H. Maize, seconded by J. B. Robison, it was ordered that the minutes of the meeting, and the resolutions prepared by the committee, be presented in open court on January 10th.

In pursuance of said action your committee beg leave to submit the following report:

To the Bench and Bar of Columbia County:

Your committee appointed to draft resolutions expressive of your sentiments relative to the death of William E. Smith, Esq, late a member of this body, respectfully report the following:

That in the death of our late associate William E. Smith, the community has lost a valuable citizen, the Bar one of its brightest ornaments, and his family a loving father and husband. He was a man of education obtained by his own hard work, of broad intelligence, and never afraid to stand by his convictions. He was possessed of polished manners and refined tastes, and as a lawyer he was true to the interests of his clients, and always courteous to opposing counsel. He was not yet thirty-six years of age, and his taking off in the flower of manhood, with so much of promise before him, is a matter of universal regret.

Resolved, that we tender to the family of William E. Smith, the assurance of our sympathy in their bereavement of our appreciation of his character, and our respect for his memory and reputation.

GEO. E. ELWELL,
ROBT. BUCKINGHAM,
C. C. PEACOCK.

The court directed the report to be filed, and a certified copy of it sent to the family of the deceased.

The town election is approaching, and good men should be selected for the several positions to be filled. This town wants good light; it wants good fire protection. Extravagance is one thing, reasonable expenditures for modern improvements is another. In its present condition Bloomsburg cannot afford to go backwards. It is to the interest of every body that a council shall be elected that is in touch with the progressive sentiment of the community. Let the tax payers look to this.

Louise Arnot and her excellent company will appear at the Opera House three nights and a Saturday matinee, commencing Thursday January 15, in the following repertoire: Thursday, "Fun on the Bristol;" Friday, "Leah, the Forsaken;" Saturday afternoon, "The Little Detective;" Saturday night, "49." Prices, 15, 25 and 35 cents. Matinee, 15 and 25. Seats sold at Dentler's.

Excellent skating was enjoyed last week by lovers of this pastime, on the Irondale dam. Parties were made up every afternoon and the frozen surface was covered with graceful skaters. Mrs. J. R. Schuyler on several days took out a number of her friends in the large store spring wagon filled with straw and chairs. The participants were delighted with their trips.

Amelie Rives Chanler is seriously ill in Paris.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary Derrickson, of Milton, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Crawford has gone to Superior, Wisconsin.

Arthur A. Clark spent last Sunday in town.

The little daughter of J. K. Bittenbender has been very ill for several days past.

Mrs. Dr. Biddle of Ashland, visited her mother, Mrs. Buckingham last week.

George Sloan is taking a business course in a Philadelphia Commercial College.

Judge Ikeler attended the funeral of Hon. A H. Dill in Lewisburg on Wednesday.

J. W. Perry of Elk Grove was in town on Friday. Business is booming up his way.

W. R. Tubbs was called to Carbondale on Tuesday by the illness of his mother.

John L. Kline, county treasurer, has purchased the Mellick property on Fifth street, and will move to town in the spring.

William Hughes has had another operation performed on his face to relieve neuralgia from which he has been a great sufferer.

E. D. Rohrbach spent a few days in town after an absence of several years. He was formerly a clerk in W. C. McKinney's shoe store.

Capt. Gable, of Shamokin, deputy revenue collector of this district, was in town on official business on Tuesday.

Miss Staddon has gone to Philadelphia to accept a position as nurse in the Episcopal Hospital.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Lottie L. Kuhn and Mr. J. G. Wells, on Thursday, the 22d inst.

Miss Martha Wells has been in a critical condition for the past week. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

Miss Anna Heinbach went to Lewisburg on Monday to attend the funeral of an infant child of her sister, Mrs. Brown.

W. Clark Sloan came up from Philadelphia on Saturday to attend the funeral of his little nephew, Francis Evans on Monday, at Berwick.

Col. Freeze attended A. H. Dill's funeral at Lewisburg on Wednesday. At a meeting of the Union county bar he made some appropriate remarks concerning the deceased.

Judge Millard took his seat on the bench last Saturday, for the first time. He is possessed of good looks and good judgment, and will fill the position with dignity and with satisfaction to the public.

Fred Smith, proprietor of the European Hotel at Danville, and W. G. Kramer also of Danville, came up last week Thursday evening and took dinner at Blue's restaurant. They were much pleased with their treatment.

Dr. and Mrs. S. B. Arment were called to Philadelphia on January 3rd. by the death of the mother of the latter, which occured on the 2nd, The funeral took place on Monday of last week. The Doctor and his wife returned on Wednesday following.

James Boyd Robison, of Bloomsburg, who was the candidate on the Republican ticket for Congress three years ago against C. R. Buckalew, was a visitor at Sunbury on Friday. He is the same jovial fellow he was when a candidate.—Sunbury News.

Judge C. G. Murphy and Senator Grant Herring attended the Jackson banquet in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia last week, Thursday. They reported it as a grand occasion. Nearly seven hundred representative democrats of the state and nation were seated at the tables. Ex-president Cleveland was the lion of the evening.

Two bums from an upper township spent Monday in town, and succeeded in getting their skins well filled with rum. In the evening they were fired out of two hotels, and spent considerable of the night in looking for a place to sleep.

The suit of William Krickbaum against W. H. Snyder for the price of printing the license list in 1889, tried last Saturday before L. Bernhard, I. Maier and John Masteller, arbitrators, resulted in a verdict of $50 for the plaintiff. This is the amount Mr. Snyder offered to pay, and is the price charged by other publishers.

Monday, January 19th is license day in court.

NO HOPE FOR ENGLISH LITERATURE.

At the debatin' club las' night we all discussed a cure
"For the debilitated state of English lit'rachure."
"The stuff that's writ for folks," I said, "don't move 'em an' delight 'em,
Because the folks who write the things don't know enough to write 'em.

"The folks who write, they stuff their heads in some big cyclopedy,
Which ain't no place for mental food to feed the poor an' needy;
They're huntin' on an em'ty shelf, like poor ol' Mother Hubbard,
An' go right by the open door of Mother Natur's cupboard.

"They crawl into some libery far from the worl's inspection,
Bury themselves in books beyond all hope of resurrection:
They cry out from their tombs, in which no sun nor star can glisten,
An' weep because the liv'n' worl' don't fin' no time to listen."

Then Elder Pettengell he asked: "Can you suggest a cure
For the debilitated state of English lit'rachure?"
"Ain't none; our authors' ignorance is far too dark for lightin', While we who know enough to write hain't got no time for writin'."

A WIFE WORTH HAVING.

The old ship Vincent seemed to be one of those craft that, according to the theory of sailors, are doomed to ill fate. James Marshall, a young man from Newport, R. I., had been her captain for five years, and during that time she had been twice "knocked down;" once had she carried away her foremast, and at the time of which we write the old ship was docked at Liverpool undergoing repairs from a serious damage she had received during a heavy gale in St. George's channel, but in all these mishaps the owners had been forced to acknowledge that the young captain was entirely free from blame, while, on the other hand, he had made better "time" in his trips than any other master had ever been able to get out of her.

The last damage which the Vincent received proved to be the occasion of the dawning of a new era in the life of Capt. Marshall, for while waiting in Liverpool for his ship to be repaired he fell in with a blooming New England girl named Emma Ramsey, the eldest daughter of the agent who did the business for the Vincent's owners, and ere long they discovered that between them there existed a peculiar feeling of mutual love. Capt. Marshall popped the delicate question, Emma consulted with her papa, and at length she consented to become Mrs. Marshall. If was a happy day for all parties when the marriage took place, for from the known characters of the bridegroom and his beautiful bride all felt sure that the match would prove one of peace and content.

The Vincent was once more ready for sea. Her cargo was all on board, and shipped for Boston, and Emma had resolved to accompany her husband to the United States. For a number of days the weather was pleasant, and the wind was fair, while Capt. Marshall felt himself supremely happy in the delightful company of his wife. The old sailors shook their heads as they saw the gentle Emma pacing the deck, and they very mysteriously asserted that "such pleasures couldn't always last," and so indeed, it proved; for at the close of a pleasant day, when they were within three or four days' sail of their destined port, things began to look anything but agreeable. Away to the south'rd and east'rd the horizon began to assume a sort of inky blackness, with here and there a ghostlike, livid spot, while on all hands the heavens had changed their ethereal blue for a cast of deeper and more fearful import.

Capt. Marshall felt as he had never felt before on the approach of a storm. For himself, for his ship, he had no thought then. There was one on board who engrossed his every sympathy—for his young wife he felt a degree of intense anxiety that was painful; but he forgot not his duty, and with comparative calmness he set about it. The courses were hauled up and snugly furled, the lighter sails taken in, and the lofty yards and topgallant masts sent on deck, and the three topsails close reefed.

Long before the sun went down the undulating ocean had assumed almost the blackness of night, and not many moments elapsed after the spars had been secured upon the deck ere the storm burst upon the ship. It was a regular southeaster, and those who have encountered one of these storms in the gulf know something of their power. Higher and higher rose the mighty tempest, until at length it was found necessary to take in the topsails and trust to the fore and main storm staysails and a balance reefed spanker. In this way the ship lay to till morning, the gale increasing every hour.

Capt. Marshall trusted that when the sun rose on the next day the storm would abate, but in this he was disappointed, for a part of the forenoon he was actually obliged to scud before it. It was not until two staysails had been torn from their bolt ropes that he fully explained his anticipations and the extent of his fears to his wife.

"Emma," said he, "I wish I had not brought you with me."

"Why so?" she asked, as she gazed up into her husband's face with apparent astonishment.

"Why so? Do you not comprehend our danger?"

"But the ship does not leak, does it?" returned Emma with remarkable coolness.

"No."

"Then let us not fear the storm. I was born upon the Atlantic, and I feel that I can yet trust to my native element."

The captain was astonished at this trait in his wife's character, and clasping her in his arms he felt his own soul swelling with a new life.

"Emma," he said, as he gazed more affectionately than ever into her face, "my heaviest fears are passed. For you alone have I feared the most; now I can calmly tell you wherein lies our danger. This storm has driven us far out of our course, and twice have we been scudding before it. I fear that the coast of Maine cannot be far to the leeward, and of that coast I know nothing save what I may gather from my chart. For us to lay to is next to impossible. The rising sea has rendered our stay sails useless, and I have been obliged to set the close reefed maintopsail, but she cannot hold it long."

"My husband," returned Emma, "though you may know nothing of the coast of Maine, yet there are but few spots along her rugged shores that are not as playgrounds to me. My father was for years a surveyor of her islands and harbors, and I was his constant companion. To me her cliffs and inlets present nothing that can alarm me."

Hardly had she ceased speaking when a sharp crack like the report of a pistol sounded from aloft, followed by a tearing and crashing that started the captain to his feet.

"The main topsail has gone!" he exclaimed, and immediately he sprang upon the deck.

Again the ship was put before the gale, and for several moments Capt. Marshall was undecided what to do. While in this quandary he felt a hand laid upon his shoulder, and on turning he beheld his wife. She had a "sou'wester upon her head and a peajacket buttoned closely about her.

"What is the matter, James?" she said.

The husband explained his perplexity.

A strange look of fearlessness and confidence rested upon that fair woman's face, and looking for a moment at the compass she said:

"We head due northwest. Station a trusty lookout in the foretop, and let the ship stand on!"

Capt. Marshall felt at that moment as though an angel had been sent to pilot him to a haven of rest. Whence arose the feeling he knew not, but instinctively he obeyed. Fearful and loud roared the mighty storm, on dashed the riven ship, but all fearless and composed stood the heroic woman upon the quarter deck, and the hardy seamen as they gazed upon her felt that what daunted not a woman should not daunt them.

"Land, ho!" came from the foretop.

In three minutes more, as the ship rose upon the bosom of a giant sea, the land was made out upon the deck, bearing about two points on the larboard bow. Emma caught sight of it, and seizing a glass at the next swell she discovered a lighthouse upon its summit. Then she turned her glass over the starboard beam, and in a moment she exclaimed:

"There are the Bantam Ledges. The land on the larboard bow is Seguin, and beyond I can see Cape Small Point. James," she continued as she gazed into her husband's face with a look all made up of conscious power, "if you will drop your foretopsail I will take you into the Kennebec!"

For a moment Capt. Marshall hardly credited the evidence of his own senses, but one look into the calm, radiant features of his wife determined him, and in five minutes the foretopsail was sheeted home.

Emma Marshall seized the spanker out haul and sprang upon the wheelhouse, and calm as the falling of the summer's dew fell her orders to the man at the wheel. The island Seguin was cleared in safety, the ship bowled fearlessly by the foam dashed rocks, and ere long her bows cleft the smoother waters of the noble Kennebec. All danger was past. Though the storm still raged, yet the old Vincent rode at anchor, and the howling tempest could harm her no more. Confidence was restored to the hardy crew.

Emma Marshall descended from her station and sought her cabin. Her rough habiliments were thrown aside, and ere long she reappeared in all the modesty and beauty of her native grace. Capt. Marshall pressed her to his bosom, and at that moment the hardy seamen waved their hats high above their uncovered heads, while a prolonged shout of joy and gratitude went forth from their relieved souls. They had been saved from the terrible coast storm, and from the bottom of their hearts they confessed Emma Marshall was A Wife Worth Having.—Sylvanus Cobb, Jr., in Yankee Blade.

Yankee Dispatch.

One day I made some reference to the clumsy and long-drawn-out way in which the Russian guns were taken up to the front. True, the roads were frightful, the mud being beyond all description, but I ventured to suggest that the progress of that artillery was, in many instances, lamentably slow.

"Wal," said the American, in broad Yankee twang, "I think you're right. They've been at it for months and there's very little promise of increasing speed. How long, now, do you think it would take Britishers to accomplish the same end?"

Actually, I had not the slightest idea, but I was not going to collapse before my Yankee interrogator, so I suggested, as an improvement on the existing state of affairs, that it would take us, say about a fortnight or three weeks. "By the way," I continued, "how long do you think it would take the Americans to achieve a similar result?"

"Americans? Oh, that's a very different kettle o' fish! Americans?" and with this he took out his watch, and glanced at it several times in meditative silence. "The Americans? Wal, I should say, as near as I can calculate, somewhere between twenty-five minutes and half an hour," and with this he turned on his heel with a self-satisfied air, leaving me to digest the comparison.—Irving Montague in Camp and Studio.

The Lamb Tree.

Joannes Zahn in 1696 first gave the world information as to this valuable plant. The planta tartarica bowmetz, according to Mr. Zahn, grows in Tartary like any other plant, and when it gets ripe a lamb forms on the top of the flower stalk. After a while the stalk bends over and the lamb grazes till all the grass in the vicinity is cropped off or the stem is severed. Then it dies. Wolves are said to be quite fond of this vegetable mutton.—John Ashton in Curious Creatures in Zoology.

THE CHOCTAWS' HEREAFTER.

An Indian Idea of the Life Beyond the Present.

From their earliest traditions the Choctaws have been taught to believe in a life after they leave this world. They believe that the spirit, the moment that it leaves the body, is compelled to travel a long distance to the west, until is arrives at an immense chasm, at the bottom of which flows a very rapid, rocky, and dangerous stream. This terrible gorge, which is surrounded on every side by great mountains, the soul has to cross on a "long and slippery pine log with the bark peeled off," the only passage to the "happy hunting grounds," which lie beyond the dangerous bridge. On the bank of the stream, just on the other end of the log, there always stand six persons, who have reached the "happy hunting grounds," and who throw sharp rocks at whoever attempts to cross the treacherous log the moment the middle of it is reached. Those who have lived properly, according to the Indian idea of morals, have no trouble in crossing the log; the stones fall harmlessly from them, and they reach the "happy hunting grounds," where there is perpetual day, without difficulty. There the trees are ever green, the sky cloudless, and the breezes always gently blowing; there, too, a continuous feast and dance are going on; the people never grow old, but live forever and revel in perpetual youth. The wicked, when they attempt to cross the dangerous bridge, can see the stones which are thrown at them, and in trying to avoid them they will fall from the giddy height into the awful gorge thousands of feet below the slippery log; where a rushing boiling stream is tumbling over the great sharp rocks, filled with dead fish and animals which are continually brought around to the same place by the eddies and whirlpools. There all the trees are dead, the waters infested by poisonous snakes, toads, and other repulsive looking reptiles, the dead are always hungry, but have nothing to eat; are always sick, but never die. There is no sun, and the wicked are constantly "climbing up by thousands on the sides of a high rock, from which they can overlook the beautiful country of the good hunting grounds, the abode of the happy, but can never reach it."—[Boston Transcript.

The Harvard Athlete.

The athlete in a recitation is very amusing. When he enters some admirer usually whispers his confidante: "Look at ——, isn't he a dandy?" The athlete always looks too large for his chair in the class room. You wonder why it does not break down. The book, too, seems all out of place in his big hands, and a pencil looks positively funny as he handles it. He wears an air of patronage as if intellectual pursuits were well in their way, and a thing to be encouraged, even interesting on occasions, but just a little unworthy a man of muscle.

He likes to stretch out his big limbs, and watch them in repose, knowing how much they can do when occasion requires. The professor even defers to him a little, unable to refuse his instinctive homage to power—even though it be physical. When he strolls across the yard men look out of their windows after him. He is pointed out to the young lady visitors, and the fair creatures look with awe on the god like being whom they have seen battling in mud and gore for the honor of Harvard in the superhuman fashion.

The athlete during his season of activity does not study much. He has to reserve his energies for physical effort. He can neither smoke nor drink. About all that is left him is to talk athletics, and for this purpose he can get plenty of listeners. But when 4 o'clock in the afternoon comes then he is in his element. And from 4 to 6 he toils away like a young giant.

Storing Sunshine for Use.

"Hi! Jimmy! Come down here. Let's set on the bridge and go round when she turns."

This from a 10 year old street boy standing on the approach to a bridge over the Erie Canal in an interior city.

The person addressed was a fellow street boy standing on a raised foot bridge over the same muddy waterway. He was no older than his companion and full as ragged. He was lame and carried a crutch, but he had his compensation in a philosophy of contentment that old Horace might have envied.

He stood upon the foot bridge and answered:

"Naw. Can't. Got t' stay here."

"Aw, come on down. What d'ye hang up there for? Lots o' fun swingin' around here. We kin git on a boat and go over the aqueduct an' then ride back on another. Aw, come on down."

"Naw; can't do it."

"Why not? What yer wants ter fool 'round up there for? Ain't no fun up there."

"Wal," was the answer that Jimmie drawled out with as solemn a face as a cadet on parade, "I can't come down nohow. I've got to stay up here and soak in all the sunshine I can so as I kin laugh when it rains."

A Heaven Sent Gift.

There is in the office of the Merchants' National Bank, of Kansas City, a fragment of a meteor which has a peculiar history.

A farmer in Wertern Kansas had borrowed more money on his farm than he found himself able to repay. While meditating over his bad fortune, but, with the usual energy of the Kansas farmer, still tilling his soil, he turned up this meteoric stone, and examined it, but discovered nothing peculiar in its make up until a relative from the East, who was visiting him, noticed it and told him it was of great value.

The farmer communicated with Professor John Hay, State Geologist at Junction City, Kan., who visited the place and confirmed the opinion of the relative and caused collectors of such stones to compete for its purchase.

It was sold for a sum largely in excess of the amount required to redeem his home from the money lender.

BLOOMSBURG NORMAL SCHOOL.

CONTINUED.

On such terms and conditions the grounds were accepted and the building erected.

On Thursday, April 4th, 1867, the Bloomsburg Literary Institute was opened and dedicated to the purpose of education. The day was warm and beautiful, and at one o'clock in the afternoon the Bloomsburg Band headed the procession, marching from the Old Academy building on Third Street to the Institute. The Band was followed by the Board of Trustees, then by the clergy, next the parents of the pupils, then the pupils, and lastly the faculty. The procession passed up Third to Market, up Market to Second, and up Second to Institute. On arriving at the door, Judge Rupert, President of the Board, unlocked it, the band fell back and escorted the faculty and pupils, who entered first, followed by the parents and Trustees. The hall of the Institute was filled by the citizens and friends of the school in attendance at the inauguration.

After music by the band, prayer was offered by the Rev. D. J. Waller, a song, "Welcome Chorus," given by the glee club, after which Hon. L. B. Rupert, President of the Board of Trustees made a report of the inception and progress of the work. The dedicatory address was made by Prof. Moss of Lewisburg. The following named pupils took part in the exercises: Misses Brower, Pursel, Hendershott, Bittenbender, Rupert, John, Lowenberg, Harman, VanBuskirk, Abbot, Tustin, McKinney, Williams, Sterner, Torbet, Correl, Edgar, Dereamer, Caslow, Robbins, Lutz, Armstrong, Buckingham and Elwell; and by Masters Waller, Little, W. H. Clark, Snyder, Buckalew, Billmeyer, Funk, Hendershott, G. E. Elwell, J. M. Clark, Bittenbender, Neal, Schuyler, Woods, and Unangst.

At the close of the afternoon exercises, Mr. E. R. Ikeler, on behalf of the teachers of Columbia county, with an appropriate speech, presented Prof. Carver with an album, containing portraits of the donors, as a testimonial of their respect, It was received by the Prof. who returned his acknowledgement in a few well chosen sentences, and after a song by a class of pupils the audience was dismissed.

In the evening the large hall of the Institute was filled with a gratified and appreciative audience, and the exercises began with a prayer by Rev. J. R. Dimm. A song was then given by the glee club At the request of the Board of Trustees Judge Elwell then delivered an admirable address, in brief reciting the history of the Institute, and urging the friends of education to push on the work, and complete the building, beautify the grounds, provide a library and necessary apparatus, and assuring them that thus they were affording to their children means for an ample education, and bestowing upon them a legacy which would be forever a blessing.

Looking back now upon that occasion, important as it seemed at the time; it is doubtful if any one realized all that it has accomplished for the town, and will yet accomplish. All its influences have been for good, and must continue to be. It has brought many strangers to our town—it has been a means of education to many here who would have gone elsewhere—all its surrounding influences and teachings are of the pleasantest kind.

On the 4th of May 1867, the stockholders of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute met and elected the following Board of Trustees:

For one year, Robert F. Clark, Peter Billmeyer, F. C. Eyer; For two years, J. G. Freeze, L. B. Rupert, Wm Snyder; For three years, John Wolf, C. Bittenbender, J. P .Connor.

On the 25th of October, 1867, Mr. E. Mendenhall was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Wm. Snyder.

During the year 1867, a fine bell weighing 2171 pounds was placed in the cupola of the school, at a cost of about $1,200.

And here we may pause for a moment in the history of this great educational enterprise. Contrary to the expectations even of friends, in spite of the sneers and opposition of the indifferent aud close-fisted and narrow-minded, the building and school were a proud success. As it stood there in its solitary grandeur upon the hill, the Board of Trustees could look upon the work with satisfaction and gratification. Undeniedly it increased the value of all the property in Bloomsburg; it increased the attractions of the town as a place of residence; it cheapened the cost of the necessary preparation of boys and girls for the active duties of life; it raised the true reputation of Bloomsburg among the surrounding counties, and even beyond the state lines the rumors of us extended, and pupils came thence among us. The liberal and large hearted man rejoiced in the good he had acomplished, and knew it was a monument to his labor and perseverance more lasting than brass. One after another the faint-hearted became foot-sore and weary; but as they fell out of the ranks their places were filled by others, and when at the end of the first year a Board came to be elected, it appeared that but four of those whose names appeared among the first roll call, had struggled on together to the end. It had been a struggle, such as they only who had gone through it, could appreciate. Amid so many discouragements they were surprised at their own success, but having succeeded it is but right to say that a very large majority of the citizens of Bloomsburg gave substantial support to the enterprise.

In the meantime the year 1867 was passing away, the school was attracting attention, the building was large and conspicuous, and our citizens began to awaken to its importance. Mr. Wickersham, the State Superintendent of Public Schools had heard of us, and seeing what we had already accomplished, suggested the erection of additional buildings and the organization of a State Normal School to be run in connection with the Literary Institute. Discussion on the subject was general and warm, and on the 9th of March 1868, the Board "Resolved that the Trustees of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute agree to establish in connection with the same, a State Normal School under the Act of Assembly of the 2nd of May, 1857, and to procure the grounds and put up the necessary buildings as soon as the sum of twenty thousand dollars is subscribed by responsible persons, agreeably to the foregoing propositions."

In pursuance thereof, at that and subsequent meetings, committees on plans, specifications and subscriptions, were appointed and proceeded to the discharge of their duties.

On the 18th of April, 1868, a public meeting was held in the Recorder's office to consider "the subject of a Normal School to be located at Bloomsburg." The Rev. Mr. Waller was called to the chair, and Capt. Brockway was chosen Secretary, Mr. Neal stated the object of the meeting. After a free and spirited discussion, the following resolutions were moved and carried:

"That the Trustees of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute be earnestly requested to purchase the necessary grounds and proceed to make an agreement to carrry forward the enterprise of erecting the building required.

That the plans submitted by Prof. Carver be recommended to the trustees for adoption.

That it be recommended to let the building to Prof. Carver at his estimate of $36.000."

The proceedings and recommendations of the public meeting having been certified to the Board of Trustees, then in session, the Board on the same day appointed a building committee, consisting of L. B. Rupert, P. Billmeyer, F. C. Eyer, and authorized it "to contract for the erection of the building with Prof. Carver at his bid of thirty-six thousand dollars, in accordance with the recommendation of the citizens," and it was accordingly so done, and the building was put in process of construction.

On the 2nd of May, 1869, the stockholders elected the following: For three years, Robert F. Clark, William Elwell, William Neal; For one year, Elias Mendenhall.

It being thought best to have the building committee members of the Board, Judge Rupert, Judge Elwell, and William Neal, were elected.

The Lottery's Death Throes.

THE LOUISIANA CONCERN IS DYING VERY HARD.

When the war upon the lotteries was opened a year ago last fall the lottery agents in Washington—which has been the most profitable centre for their work in the whole country—laughed the efforts of their advresaries to scorn, saying that it was a mere revival of an old threat, and would soon blow over as usual. They even continued in this attitude up to the time of the report of the anti-lottery bill by the house postoffice committee.

Even after that they still maintained that they could make a very good living by confining their work to specific localities and not taking risks by using the mails at all. The passage of the bill making the lottery business of itself unlawful in the District of Columbia did not frighten them, because the counsel for the Louisiana lottery company assured them that, however well the postmaster general might succeed in shutting them out of the privileges of the mail, no law forbidding a private individual to carry on a business in lottery tickets could stand the test of constitutionality in the supreme court, being a violation of the personal rights of citizens.

A surprise awaited them again, when the prosecuting officers of the District proceeded to arrest a dealer in tickets, and proposed to give the Louisiana company a chance to try the constitutional question without further delay. The man was brought into court and then pleaded guilty, asserting that though he had sold four tickets, as stated in the indictment, he had done so under advice of counsel, but that these counsel had since revoked their opinion and come around after all to the conclusion that congress had a right to enforce its prohibition in the District. He was fined, according to the letter of the statute, $50 for each offense and allowed to go without further punishment in consideration of his declaration that he had given up his business for good.

Meanwhile the postoffice department is having new questions presented to it every day. The most troublesome problems are those involved in a class of advertising which is disguised as news items and interviews, and in circulars sent around the country under seal by the lottery company touting for agents. A number of copies of these circulars have been turned in to the department by citizens who have received them.

One of the company's devices seems to be to dispose of its tickets through local agencies, leaving the agents individually to grapple with the local law in case they are called to account. A good many men in every large city, apparently, are willing to risk their personal safety on the chance of making a fair livelihood out of the commission on sales. In other cases it seems that the local statutes are so loosely drawn as to enable a man to buy all the tickets he wants under the fiction of being an agent merely and depositing money with his employer as security for an "outfit."

In the opinion of Judge Tyner, the assistant attorney general for the post-office department, the Louisiana Lottery company has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of its chief executive officer, M. A. Dauphin. He was not only extremely shrewd in devising schemes for evading the law, but had been identified by name with the fortunes of the company so long and so publicly that every one in the country could read between the lines of any publication containing a reference to him.

So innocent a little reading notice, for instance, as "Any person having business with M. A. Dauphin of New Orleans, La., before the 15th of September, may address him under cover to such and such a bank; remittances exceeding $5 may be sent by express at his expense," would be understood by the people interested as well as if the company's whole title were blazoned at the top of the column. This will not be the case, Judge Tyner thinks, with Mr. Dauphin's successor, who is practically unknown, and the business of the company has received a blow from which, under existing conditions, it may never recover.

WIVES DREAM OF BLISS.

The Kitchen Will Be Banished From Their Homes.

The idea of co-operative housekeeping is growing in this country. It is now receiving a practical test in several western cities, and also in Philadelphia.

The idea is not so much to secure cheaper living as to do away with individual household work. The cook in charge of the central culinary establishment will purchase all provisions necessary, hire the needful help, and collect from each family its proportion of the expenses. The families will be charged according to the number of persons each contains, special prices being made for babies and very small children.

Another plan is to adopt a regular weekly rate for each person.

Purchasing fuel and provisions in wholesale quantities, the association will buy at a much lower rate than that charged individuals. Families can either take their meals at private tables curtained in booths in the main dining room of the central supply house, or have them served in their own dwellings. The former plan is the one usually adopted, and can be carried on somewhat cheaper than the other.

Speaking of the trial now being made in Philadelphia, Dr. Taylor, of that city, says:

"If the plan works, as we have no doubt it will, besides having a central cooking house, there will be established a laundry, electric light plant, and house heating apparatus. A good system is to have one central supply house for each square. The dwellings are built as usual, with the exception of the dining rooms. They are built away from the main structure and along a covered aisle leading from the central house to the middle of the four sides of the square. The dining rooms are one story structures, and they are connected with the main dwelling by little archways. Thus each family eats in its own dining room, but is served from the common supply house.

"Experienced hotel men tell us that three servants can cook for 40 families. It would require three more to distribute the meals. The laundry would not necessitate the employment of more than three people. The heating and lighting apparatus is attended by a few laborers. Forty families thus dismiss at least 40 servants, and have their work done more thoroughly and better by a dozen."

Lopped Ears.

Lopped ears are the result of domestication in all animals except the elephant. Not only carnivorous animals, but all animals which are liable to be preyed upon by others, need the erect mobile funnel shaped ear to catch every sound; the one class to apprise them of the vicinity of their prey, the other to keep them on their guard against unseen foes; and the constant exercise of the external organ gives tone and energy to the muscles which move it.

The elephant, too, probably came of an ancestral stock that had erect ears, but for ages past there has been no creature powerful enough to cause it alarm, and for want of exercise the muscles which move the ear have lost tone and wasted away, leaving the ear to lop or hang pendulous.

The tendency to lop the ear varies much in different animals. Rabbits lop their ears after a comparatively short period of domestication, and with the exception of dogs are almost the only lop eared animals in Europe or America; but in Oriental countries all the domestic animals are more or less lop eared, a fact which suggests that they have been much longer under domestication than their congeners in Christendom.

East Indian goats have long pendulous ears, sometimes over a foot in length and soft as silk. The ears of the Indian donkey stand out horizontally; those of the zebu, or Indian ox, droop below the horizontal line, and some breeds of Oriental horses carry their ears nearly horizontal, although the Arab horse shows no such tendency.

The greatest measure of variability in this matter of lopped ears is to be found among dogs. Spaniels, setters, pointers, bloodhounds, beagles, and foxhounds, all have long pendulous ears; bulldogs, terriers, collies, and grayhounds droop only the tips of their ears; the spitz has erect ears, while mastiffs and many other breeds have short pendulous or semi-pendulous ears.

It might be inferred that the more pendulous eared dogs have been longer under domestication and that the more prick eared dogs have been derived from wild stock at a comparatively recent period; but something may be due to accidental variation and careful selection in breeding.

In general, lopped ears result from ages of disuse of the muscles which move the ears, and which in wild animals are in constant activity; and it appears that ears which have become pendulous tend to increase in length.

The Modern Goths.

Lord Wolseley believes that the Chinese will in time overrun the world—as soon, in fact, as a great general or lawgiver arises among them. At present they have no great leaders, for the simple reason that the government puts out of existence every Celestial who displays more than the average intelligence. It is narrated that when commissioner Leh was asked whether it was true that he had beheaded 60,000 men in three years he replied: "Oh, surely, more than that." Lord Wolseley thinks, however, that a Chinese Alexander or Moses will come to the front some day, and that his people will then adopt the profession of arms and sweep over India, Russia, and the continent, and finally give England, America, and Australia a tussle for supremacy. This sounds chimerical, but we should not forget Rome or the Goths. —[Toronto Mail.

A Simple Explanation.

"George," said the bride, "I seem to be constantly hearing the sweetest music. I wonder what it means."

"It means," said the practical groom, "that the feller that sold me that wedding ring for a plain gold band worked off a brass band on me."

WHAT IS

SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J.

The Philadelphia Press has won the foremost place among Pennsylvania newspapers by the liberality, enterprise and fairness with which it conducts its business, reports great events, and the completeness with which it records, day by day, the life of the city, state and country.

Its field is world-wide, and its staff, its special correspondents, so many and well organized, its source of news so numerous, that it appeals to a wider constituency than any other newspaper ever published in Pennsylvania.

"The Press," said one of the managers of the Western Union Telegraph Company, "now receives more telegraphic news than all the other Philadelphia newspapers combined." This statement is authoritative and conclusive, and The Press presents as daily witnesses to its truth its twelve to twenty-four bright and interesting pages.

But it is not only by its news enterprise—by the zeal, energy, and integrity of its reporters and correspondents that The Press has won and held the confidence of its many thousands of readers, representing every age and every condition of life, every trade and every profession, every faith and every political opinion. It is the excellence and varied interest of The Press as a general family journal, appealing to women as well as to men, which have made for it so many friends at home, and extended its reputation throughout the country. It prints every important event in the world's progress.

The printing of news is always its first business, but its columns are also enriched by contributions from the most gifted special writers, the most famous novelists, and some of the most eminent public men of the time. The literary engagements already made for 1891, probably surpass in number and variety, and nearly equal in cost, any contemporary magazine, for the field and resources of such a newspaper as The Press make it not only a daily historian, but a daily forum and a daily tribune.

Its steadily growing profits and its steadfast constituency not only demand, but insure progress. The greatest authors as well as the brightest news correspondents, find their largest profits derived from any Pennsylvania newspaper, as well as their best Pennsylvania audience, in Daily, Sunday and Weekly Press.

In politics The Press is Republican, but it knows no other master than the people whose rights, aspirations, and needs it always defends. It has no enemies to punish, no individual political ambitions to foster or promote, and is subservient to no politician or clique. Faithful to the great body of readers and voters, whom it truly represents, it promotes its own interest and influence by faithfully upholding theirs. Its editorials are fearless and frank—never captious. Its news is always impartial. In its pages the workingmen finds as ready audience as the capitalist. To all commercial and industrial progress, to the best thought and best action in every sphere of human enterprise, it accords a generous and enlightened hospitality. In the columns of The Philadelphia Press justice finds "all seasons summer."

PENSIONS! VETERANS!!

THE DISABILITY PENSION BILL.

Act of June 27, 1890, grants pensions to all ex-soldiers and sailors who served 90 days or more in the Army or Navy during the rebellion, and were honorably discharged, and who are now suffering from any permanent, mental or physical disability contracted since the war or during the war whether from disease, injuries or effects of old age, at the rate of from $6 to $12 per month, according to the degree of his disability for the performonce of labor requiring the exertion of physical strength; provided the disability is not due to vicious habits. This pension is not restricted to the veterans who have to make their living by hard labor, but is equally due to professional men and clerks, providing they have an existing disability which would prevent the continuous exercise of the physical strength of an able-bodied man.

Those who have applied under the general laws and who are unable to prove up the pending claim can apply for and secure this pension and then continue the prosecution of the former claim and secure their arrears.

If you are now drawing a small pension, say $2 or $4 per month, you can take this pension instead, and if you have an application on file for increase or additional pension for new disabilities you can continue the prosecution of such claims while drawing the new pension, or you can file an original claim for a disability contracted in the service while drawing pension under this new act.

Widows, children and depenpent mothers and fathers are entitled under this act and can suspend the prosecution of any pending claim, and take this pension, and afterwards complete the prior claim and get arrears.

Having been duly appointed an Agent according to the rules and regulations of the Department of the Interior in the prosecution of such claims and having had success in a number of cases I am always prepared to give information and assist claimants, and will assure them success if they are able to establish the facts as required by law.

Those interested should call soon and claim their reward.

JACKSON'S DAY.

A GREAT BANQUET OF THE DEMOCRATS.

A Brilliant Event in Philadelphia Which Attracted the Shining Lights of the Party From all Sections of the Union

The Jackson day celebration of the Democracy in Philadelphia on January 8th. was one of the most brilliant political demonstrations ever witnessed in that city. Ex-President Cleveland was the central figure, and he was tendered a great ovation. Many distinguished Democratic leaders sat at the tables, including Governors, ex-Governors, Senators. Congressmen and other high officials. Letters of regret were read from many others.

Following was the arrangement of toasts:

"The memory of Jackson," drank in silence; "The principles of the true Democracy—they are enduring because they are right and invincible because they are just," ex-President Grover Cleveland; "The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—her honor is safe in the virtue, intelligence and independence of her people," Gov. Elect Robert E. Pattison; "the Federal Government—its prosperity depends upon constitutional limitation," ex-Secretary of State Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware; "The new south—in her material and political development are the elements of a successful future," Congressmen W. C. H. Breekenridge, of Kentucky; "New England—her history is a record of hostility to unjust taxation," Hon. John P. Russell, of Massachusetts; "The Young Democracy—the hope and reliance of the Republic; Counsellor Joseph P. McCullen, of Philadelphia.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland was the guest of the evening, and the enthusisam evoked by his appearance was unprecedented. The banquet began at 7 o'clock, and covers were laid for over 600 diners. Prominent Democrats from all parts of the State and country occupied seats at the table. Previous to his appearance at the Academy Cleveland held a reception at the rooms of the Young Men's Democratic Association, lasting from 2 o'clock until 5, and the locality was jammed with people during the three hours that the reception lasted.

THE SCENE WHEN GROVER ENTERED.

The scene which greeted Cleveland upon entering the Academy of Music was brilliant in the extreme. The decorations were profuse and flowers and plants abounded. Around the balconies were festoons of flowers, the names of the states of the Union being prominently displayed. Ten thousand dollars are said to have been expended by the association in the preparation for the banquet, and the scene presented when all were seated at the tables has probably never been excelled. Mr. Cleveland occupied the seat of honor, ex-Secretary of State Bayard being on his right and Governor-elect Pattison occupying the seat at his left.

At the conclusion of the banquet proper the balconies of the Academy, holding about 2,000, were opened for the admission of the public, and were soon filled with a brilliant gathering, mostly ladies in evening dress. Prominent among the guests was Mrs. Cleveland, who occupied what is known as the "Mrs. Cleveland Box." She was accompanied by a number of ladies. Her entrance was greeted with applause, which was redoubled when she kissed her hand to her distinguished husband, who sat almost opposite her.

It was near 10 o'clock when Samuel Gustine Thompson, President of the association, dellvered the opening address. When Mr. Cleveland rose to his feet to respond to his toast the scene was simply indescribable. The diners and those assembled in the galleries cheered repeatedly and waved napkins and handkerchiefs. The speaker remained several minutes on his feet before he was permitted to proceed. Cheers followed almost every word of his speech.

Governor-elect Pattison's speech was received with much applause.

Ex-Secretary of State Bayard responded to the toast: "The Federal Government—its perpetuity depends upon constitutional limitations." He delivered no set speech, and his short address was mainly eulogistic of the Cleveland administration. His opening sentence to the effect that he was a believer in the gospel of creation evoked much laughter, but his next remark to the effect that he stood ever ready to assist Grover Cleveland in the gospel of work for the benefit of the American people brought forth hearty applause, as did also a reference to Cleveland's second administration. He agreed with Edmund Burke that the man who believes that he has no law but his own will soon find that he has no profit but his own, and much applause followed Mr. Bayard's declaration that the rules of Speaker Reed in the House and the proposed gag law in the Senate are without warrant in the constitution.

Congressman Breckenridge, of Kentucky, in responding to "The New South," created much enthusiasm by a speech enlogistic of the South. John E. Russel, of Massachusetts, responded to "New England." The speech making was brought to a close at midnight by Joseph P. McCullen, of Philadelphia, whose theme was, "The Young Democracy the Hope and Reliance of the Republic.

Shenandoah's great republican organization, the Don Cameron Club, has been added to the rapidly-swelling list of political organizations that have gone up the flue. The leading members of the club were Major J. F. Finney, Postmaster H. C. Boyer, Jeff Yost, Archie Lamb, Leo Bamburger and 'Squire T. T. Williams. The club had quite a good sized membership, but there was no money in the treasury and the members foresaw that a crisis was imminent. To add to the troubles of the organization Isaccher Robbins, owner of the building in which the club's rooms were located, presented a bill of $165 for rent. The club was unable to pay, and to prevent the attachment of their furniture, pretty pictures and bric-a-brac, they removed and secreted them so carefully that no trace has been discovered of it. —Times.

ANDREW H. DILL DEAD.

Andrew H. Dill, United States Marshal for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, died on Sunday morning in Philadelphia. He had been ill for several months. The funeral occurred at Lewisburg on Wednesday afternoon Mr. Dill was a prominent democrat, and served in both houses of the state legislature, and in 1878 was the democratic candidate for governor. He was fifty four years of age.

At the election of officers of the Philadelphia & Reading R. R. Co. in Philadelphia last Monday, the following were elected: President, A. A McLeod, Managers, A. J. Antelo, Thomas Cochran, George de B Keim, Henry C. Gibson, Thomas Dolan, James Boyd; Treasurer, W. A. Church, Secretary, W. B. Taylor. The meeting was presided over by Hon. S. P. Wolverton.

SONGS AND POEMS, BY JOHN SUTTON

The above is the title of a very neat little volume recently published by John Sutton of Stillwater, this county. It contains a good portrait of the author, and the dedication is as follows: "To his Honor E. R. Ikeler, President Judge of the Twenty-sixth Judicial District of Pennsylvania, composed of Columbia and Montour counties, for many favors given, for many encouraging words spoken when greatly needed and for his uniform courtesies and kindness is this little volume dedicated by the author."

The preface states that "the poems were written during the course of many years as circumstances called them up, and were published in the local papers without the most distant idea of them ever appearing in any other form. But through the suggestions and solicitation of many friends I have reluctantly consented to give them to the public in book form. Aware of their many imperfect ons as poetical compositions, yet many of them being expressions of my own sentiments and emotions, and of others with whom I have sympathized in their joys and sorrows and founded too as many of them are, on local incidents which will be readily recognized, I flatter myself that the local reader, at least, will find something in them to interest him, and remind him of one who has long lived among the people of this section of the country, and been somewhat identified with the local events of half a century.

One thing is certain, that if they give the reader as much pleasure as they have the writer, he will not begrudge the small price asked for the book."

Many of the poems are very pretty, and the book is worthy of a place in any library. It sells for the small price of one dollar, and will be sent by the author John Sutton, Stillwater, Pa. post paid on receipt of price, or it can be obtained of J. Wesley Moyer, who has taken the agency for Bloomsburg.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of the COLUMBIAN will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treetment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally. acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Maj.-Gen. B. F. Butler.

HE WILL RETURN TO THE SOUTH FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE WAR.

It seems hardly necessary to say anything of the history of Gen. B. F. Butler. No man in the whole nation has been more constantly in the public eye for the last four decades than he. As a successful lawyer and influential politician before the war, as a patriot who was among the first to respond to the country's call at the firing upon Fort Sumpter, as the man who gave New Orleans the best government the city ever had, as Commander of the Army of the James, as a Representative in Congress and a leading politician since the war, he has had public attention constantly focused upon him. No man in the country has received more praise and more abuse than he, and no man has more warm, personal friends and admirers. Many of the people of the South have been particularly bitter against him, and have tried to make his name the synonym for all that was detestable. He is now about to return good for evil, and heap coals of fire upon the heads of his detractors by a great enterprise to help restore prosperity to the region which suffered so severely from the ravages of the war. He is at the head of the great Georgia-Alabama Investment and Development Co., whose advertisement appears elsewhere in this paper, which is made up of capitalists whom he has associated with himself in a scheme to rebuild and develop large portions of Dixie. Early next month he intends to make a tour of the South, visiting that section for the first time since the close of the war—twenty-six years ago. He will go to New Orleans, and to all other prominent points, and survey the fields of operations of this company carefully, to inform himself personally as to the possibilities of each locality. There is something phenomenal in such a tour by a general whose first visit was sword in hand, but who now goes as a restorer. It will be watched with great interest by all sections of the country.—National Tribune, Washington, D. C. 1-16-4w.

Cancerous Eczema.

For many years I have been sorely afflicted with Eczema on my face. The eruption was in large splotches, and Cancerous nature. I had treatment from a number of experienced phyiicians, with little or no benefit, and only of a temporary nature. After other treatments had failed I bought seven bottles of S. S. S. from Messrs. Tennille & Holland, of Troy, Ala., and it cured me. I feel like a new man, my painful troubles and apprehension is all gone, and now at sixty years of age I am once more restored to health, and it is due entirely to S. S. S. Twenty-five Years as One.

DR. AND MRS J. F CHAPIN CELEBRATE THEIR TWENTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

It was a most pleasant social event that occurred at Merril Hall last Friday evening, December 26, when a joyous company assembled in response to the invitation of Dr. J. F. Chapin and his estimable wife, to help them celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. There were 225 guests present, thus making it the largest attended similar event in Schoolcraft in many years. Rev. J. W. Bancraft of Hastings, was present, and at the proper time addressed the bride and groom in a few well chosen and appropriate remarks. Just as the guests were all seated preparatory to partaking of the bountiful repast that was served, Bennett's orchestra rendered a pretty selection, and from that time on they continued to discourse sweet music to the enjoyment of the large company of guests.

Most notable among the guests present was Mrs. Sophia Bidleman, mother of Mrs. Chapin, she being the oldest person present, now in her 90th year, and seemed to enjoy the pleasure of the occasion equally as well as the younger guests.

Many friends from a distance were present.

The company spent a very enjoyable evening, and all went home feeling that it was an event long to be remembered.

The presents were numerous and beautiful.

May the silver fetter that now with such a silky softness bind, never their firm but gentle hold relax until to gold they turn, nay, nor then until they shine with diamond's "purest ray serene."—Schoolcraft Express.

Pleasant to the taste, surprisingly quick in effect and economical in price—no wonder that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the leading preparation of its kind.

Clerk Barry, of the Girard House, Philadelphia, is a successful collector of autographs, and numbers in his galaxy of the signatures of noted people some brief screeds that will have a big market some day. Clerk Barry is a comparatively young man, and few guests, who have seen him twirl the ends of his long blonde mustache as he deals out information to strangers or performs the offices of duty would think from his outward appearances that his experience with the world had been out of the ordinary. But it has—for a young man, anyway—and in the course of his meetings with men and women of note he has managed to collect a prized book of autographs, and among them he numbers the genuine signature of the Governor of nearly every State in the Union.

It was at the very height of the career of Grover Cleveland and the pinnacle of his wife's popularity when Clerk Barry secured from them an autograph, accompanied by a kind note from each Robert G. Ingersoll, who in general is opposed to favoring the world with his personal signature, met and fancied the young man, and as a remembrance gave him his autograph. The signature of ex-Secretary of State Bayard occupies a prominent position in the collection. Last week G. A. Sachse, who occupies in Germany a position like to that of our Postmaster General, added his to the list. The last and one of the most valuable is the one sent him by Major Pond, the manager of the Stanley lecture tour, of the autograph of Henry M. Stanley, the great explorer, and his wife, nee Dorothy Tennant. The token was forwarded while Stanley was en route to Des Moines, Ia., on December 26.—Exchange.

Alumni of Lafayette will be glad to know that Professor Coffins' "Men of Lafayette" has been published. Professor Coffin has given the task of preparing it his best efforts and though no one can realize the amount of labor required in perfecting it, the contents show that his labor has not been in vain. The volume is one of the very best of its kind that could possibly be printed, and could emanate only from such hands as the author, who is eminently fitted for just this sort of tedious, pains-taking exacting work, requiring a tireless brain, an adept in classifications and comprehensive mind, to whom masses of data, dates and figures are no barriers. We predict that the Alumni and friends will soon exhaust the edition.—Easton Express.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Regular meeting, January 8th, at 8 p. m., with President Herring in the chair, and members Fetterman, Rabb and Schwinn.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

Complaints having been made against the Bloomsburg Band for injuring Town Hall, it was upon motion of Messrs Gross and Fetterman ordered that notice be served on the officers of the band to appear and answer to the charges at an adjourned meeting of the council, on Monday, Jan. 12, '91.

Wm. Chrisman appeared and presented a petition for the opening of West street, from Third street to Fourth street, signed by sundry citizens and property holders on said street. Laid over for consideration at adjourned meeting of Jan. 12, 1891.

A building permit was granted to Mathias Shaffer, contractor.

The report of the Commissioner of Highways for December and sundry bills and accounts were read and upon motion approved and secretary directed to issue orders for the same, with the exception of the bill of Bloomsburg Water Co. for rent for fire hydrants for the month of December, 1890, pay of which was refused. The bills approved are as follows, to-wit:

How It Was!

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. It discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier. 1-16 2t.

SPECIAL SERVICE.

Nightly meetings are being held in the Lutheran church with marked interest The Sacrament which was to have been administered last Sunday was postponed until next Sunday morning and evening.

Who is Peter Von Finklestein Mamreov?

Peter Von Finklestein Mamreov is of Slavonic parentage, and was born and brought up in Jerusalem. He lived so much among the Fellaheen, Bedouins and City men, that their manners and customs became to him almost a second nature. Later he became interpreter to the United States Consulate at Jerusalem, and in that capacity he formed the acquaintance of a number of Americans, and was induced to come to America. When he arrived here he entered the lecture field: and though the story of the "Land and the Book" has been often told, yet he has never been excelled on the platform. The immediate object of his lecture is to refute the perversions and distortions of infidel lecturers in their attacks upon the veracity of Holy Scripture.

Mr. Von Finklestein thoroughly understands the manners and customs and habits of ancient and modern life in Syria and Palestine; and with household furniture shows to his audiences real life in the historic East. He has recently returned from a successful lecture tour in England and a visit to his native East.

He lectures at the Normal School on Friday evening, changing places in the course with the Park Sisters, some of whom are ill.

In his illustrations Mr. Von Finklestein will be assisted by several persons in Oriental costumes, and with their aid will act out on the platform many of the most striking customs of the people of this most interesting of lands.

Tickets at Dentler's store.

Manners' Balm of Gilead Lotion for chappy hands, face and lips, is without competition. Price 25c a bottle, for sale by all druggists.

Sister Rose Gertrude's Work.

Sister Rose Gertrude, the young woman about whose work among the lepers of Molokai so much has been written, has been induced to reply to the charges made against her for renouncing her work. Her article, the first from her pen is to be published in The Ladies' Home Journal for February, and will contain a full explanation of what she has accomplished among the lepers, and why she was obliged to forsake her work.

Communion Servic s at the Lutheran Church were postponed last Sunday on account of the bad weather. The rain and sleet made travelling almost impossible, and hence there were but few in attendance at the service. Communion Services will be held this Sunday, January 18th.

The great popularity of Ayer's Pills as a cathartic is due no less to their promptness and efficacy than to their coating of sugar and freedom from any injurious effects. Children take them readily. See Ayer's Almanac for this year, just out.

What Dr. Newman, Gen. Grant's pastor, says of Peter Von Finklestein Mamreov:

"Palestine is a changeless land. Customs two thousand years old are the customs of to-day. To reproduce these illustrations of the sacred story is the mission of Mr. Von Finklestein. To see him in his Oriental costumes and hear him in his prayers and hymns is to spend an evening in the Holy Land."

Hear him at the Normal School on Friday night. Tickets at Dentler's store.

Manners' Double Extract Sarsaparilla for female complaint, is the best. Try it once and you will never be without it. Price 50c a bottle. For sale by all druggists.

The Bloomsburg School Board expect soon to adopt a course of study by which students graduating from the High School can enter the Normal School and graduate in the Elementary Department in one year.

Louise Arnot and company will be at the Opera House this week Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, and Saturday afternoon. Admission 15, 25 and 35 cents for evenings, 15 and 25 for matinee. Seats at Dentler's.

Mr. John Wolf desires to return thanks to the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted them during their late sad affliction.

A Card of Thanks.

We take this opportunity of extending to our many friends and neighbors, our sincere thanks and gratitude for favors and kindnesses conferred upon us during the illness and death of our little daughter, Barbara.

JACOB HIRLEMAN.
MAGGIE HIRLEMAN.

The evening service at the Presbyterian church next Sunday will be devoted to the consideration of Christian Endeavor work. Several addresses will be given. All persons interested in this cause are invited to be present.

Rev. Sam Small will lecture in the Catawissa Opera house, Friday evening, Jan. 16. Admission 25 and 35 cents. Proceeds for the benefit of the public School Library Fund. Subject—"From the Bar-room to the Pulpit."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

If Your House is on Fire.

You put water on the burning timbers, not on the smoke. And if you have catarrh you should attack the disease in the blood, not in your nose. Remove the impure cause, and the local effect subsides. To do this, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier which radically and permanently cures catarrh. It also strengthens the nerves. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

DIED.—At Waller, Pa. January 9, 1891, of pneumonia, Barbara Amanda Hirleman, infant daughter of Jacob and Maggie Hirleman, aged 8 months and 13 days.

His Ignorance Cost Me $150.00!

I was sick abed for three months. The doctor said I had Prolapsus Uteri, which was untrue. He didn't try to cure me but wanted to make a $1.50 every day. My uncle is a druggist, and he told me to turn the doctor off and try Sulphur Bitters. I did so and five dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me of general weakness and debility.—Mrs. S——, New Haven, 1-16-2w

WHAT THEY SMOKE.

George Gould is very fond of a cigar and smokes the Jefferson, a twenty cent brand.

Collis P. Huntington is an infrequent smoker and he has no special brand of cigars. One is just as good as another to him.

Henry Clews is rarely seen without a cigar between his teeth, whether in the exchange or at his office; it is seldom lighted.

Banker Isidor Wormser smokes from fifteen to twenty cigars a day. The Perfecto is his favorite brand and they cost him twenty cents apiece.

Jay Gould smokes the best cigar in the market during business hours. Four cigars a day are his limit. He pays twenty-five cents apiece for them.

Russell Sage smokes only one cigar a day, and that after his light noonday lunch in the Western Union building. It is a five cent cigar, and he buys six of them for a quarter.

Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry is an excellent judge of a cigar, and he smokes a good many of them. The commodore's favorite is La Rosa, and he pays $25 for a box of 100 cigars.

John E. Rockefeller likes a cigar after dinner, and never smokes during business hours. While playing billiards, his favorite game, he also smokes a mild cigar, generally La Liberador.

Congressman Amos J. Cummings is a devoted lover of the weed and never refuses a cigar. He likes an American cigar better than the imported ones and smokes from ten to fifteen of them a day.

Col. Robert G. Ingersoll smokes a brand of cigars named after him. He always smokes after a meal and frequently in his office. He is an artistic smoker and seems to enjoy every puff of smoke that passes his lips.

Mr. William Waldorf Astor is an excellent judge of a cigar and has a special brand manufactured for him by a leading Havana maker. It has a delightful flavor and is quite mild. Mr. Astor orders them by the hundred boxes.

James R. Keene is an inveterate smoker and gets away with a dozen cigars a day. He is an exceedingly nervous man and claims that smoking soothes him. Mr. Keene smokes the Garcia, that cost twenty cents and are pretty strong.

Mr. William K. Vanderbilt smokes a special brand which he has imported from Cuba. Each cigar has a golden band around it upon which is Mr. Vanderbilt's coat of arms. At wholesale in Cuba they cost him twenty-five cents each.

J. Pierpont Morgan smokes a very strong cigar, the Carolina, for which he pays fifteen cents each. When Mr. Morgan does not feel like lighting a cigar he places it between his teeth and enjoys what is known as a dry smoke. He probably spoils half a dozen cigars daily in this way.

M. Vieille, prominent as an inventor of smokeless powder, by means of a delicate process of registration finds that the pressures at the moment of burning the powder do not shed themselves uniformly over the gun throughout its length, but that a wave of pressure starts at the seat of the powder and transmits itself.

The Oklahoma Destitution.

The present destitution in Oklahoma is the logical outcome of the artificial character of its settlement. A Territory that within a few months developed hothouse towns, which the ready photograper has made familiar to Eastern people, having all the semblance, from a distance, of towns fifty years old, need not be surprised if such towns, and the economics they represent, waste away when exposed to the real facts of frontier life. Oklahoma's budding civilization, therefore, coddled and fostered and supported on other than the natural resources of either soil or citizens as a basis for life and growth, is withering, shriveling, and dying, as any conservatory jessamine, exposed to January's nor'wester.

The English as usual have got the matter upside down, and the London Telegraph of December 29 said: "The story of the settlement of Oklahoma is the tale of all the American Territories and States. The Americans are of our own race and we are proud of them. They made the wilderness blossom like a rose, not by policy or statecraft, but by the hard toil of courageous and capable men. With a people so strong and elastic, Oklahoma will only be an episode probably to be forgotten before Chicago opens her gates to the world in 1893."

It would have been well if Oklahoma had been built by the hard toil of courageous men but it was not. The craze for land speculation engrossed the attention of the first Legislature recently adjourned, and altogether Oklahoma's civilization smacked of the packing case. The fashions were a few weeks behind Paris, it is true, but still, what with a financial crisis, bank failures, and rising and falling booms in real estate and frame shanties, the new towns contrived to follow more closely their more august Eastern prototypes.

The townspeople are, however, not the sufferers, the destitution being confined to the thousands of bona fide but miguided settlers who rushed in, having spent their last cent in getting there, and are now stranded, objects of charity for the nation to look after. They are not only land rich and money poor, but, worse yet, are poor in everything, including common sense. While the experience of these unfortunates will be most drastic, its effect on the nation at large cannot but be beneficial, for it will be the simplest of all object lessons in industrial economy, that you cannot get something out of nothing and live on it; and that is the secret of the destitution in Oklahoma.—Press.

A Real Balsam is Kemp's Balsam.

The dictionary says, "A balsam is a thick, pure aromatic substance flowing from trees." Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs is the only cough medicine that is a real balsam. Many thin, watery cough remedies are called balsams, but such are not. Look through a bottle of Kemp's Balsam and notice what a pure, thick preparation it is. If you cough use Kemp's Balsam. At all druggists'. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.

The decision of the supreme court that the possession of dead game out of season cannot be punished unless it be proved that the game was killed in the state, opens a way to an evasion of the game law. In most cases it would be a very difficult matter to prove that the game in question had been killed within the borders of the commonwealth if the opposite plea were entered and in this way the charges would fall to the ground. While this decision is doubtless good law its effect will be to make conviction in cases of violation of the game laws more difficult.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure your coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis, and all diseases pertaining to the lungs because it is a pure Balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

Sirs:—Last Summer I cured a Curb upon my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it with perfect success, curing every thing I tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad Spavin that made him lame. He asked me how to cure it. I recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. He cured the Spavin in just three weeks.
Yours respectfully,

HOW ALLAN HOPES TO FLY.

His Machine Will Bore a Hole in the Air and of Course Go Up the Hole.

In an up stairs room in the Western House at Ballard has been developed within the past eight months what in the opinion of men of sound judgment will prove, if practical, the invention of the age.

Mr. William Allan, a real estate broker and a former employee of the West Coast Improvement Company, has nearly completed the model of an aerial ship or flying machine. It consists of two oval or cigar shaped bodies with tapering ends, the smaller suspended within the larger. Around the larger an immense thread of stiff canvas, or some other strong but light material, winds spirally from end to end. Within the smaller body is situated the propelling power, which by means of a set of pulleys, bands, wheels, etc., revolves the interior oval body, and as it moves so it causes the larger machine on the exterior to move with correspondingly greater velocity.

The theory which William Allan has held and reasoned upon for the last 20 years is this: A screw by revolution forces itself through wood, so Mr. Allan concluded if he could invent a machine with threads large enough to revolve in the atmosphere it will travel through space and with great rapidity on the same principle. If Mr. Allan be not a deluded inventor one may travel in this machine in any direction, with almost any speed desired, and with perfect safety, by means of steering apparatus and speed regulator which are attached and under the control of the aeronaut within the bowels of the inventio[n]. If this invention proves practical, and Mr. Allan thinks it will, railroads and ocean grayhounds will be easily distanced. The details of the machine can not be fully described, as only a working model has been constructed, and although Mr. Allan has obtained a caveat he does not wish to give away his secret until he has more substantial financial backing.

Mr. Allan has also constructed a huge unicycle, or, as some paradoxically call it, a one wheel bicycle. It is seventeen feet in circumference, and has a tire one foot wide. The cyclist stands in the center, and by moving his feet up and down on pedals turns a small wheel which revolves the larger one at the same time. As every revolution of the smaller wheel turns the larger it will readily be seen the cyclist goes a distance of seventeen feet every revolution. The unicycle is now in the yard of James McLachlan, a contractor and builder, who is putting the finishing touches upon it under Mr. Allan's supervision. It is expected a public trial of this invention will be made in a short time.

Recently, in conversation with a reporter, Ballard's inventor said: "There may be some skeptical people who deem my inventions impracticable, but the public thought Fulton was crazy when he was building the Claremont, and when Columbus was trying to convince the monarchs of Europe that another world existed even the children significantly pointed their fingers to their foreheads when he passed by. But there was no screw loose in Columbus's head, neither was there in Fulton's."—[Seattle Post Intelligencer.

A Special Chance.

In connection with his army experience, Colonel Pat Gilmore, the famous musician, tells this story: "You see, we musicians who march to battle are really the only ones who are unprotected. We, of course, can handle no weapons and are at the mercy of bullets. To our duty of furnishing the inspiring strains to the marching soldiers we have another one—that of carrying off the wounded from the field on stretchers. In one of the battles we were on our way to the scene of action, when we met a soldier running away from the field.

"'What is the matter?' I inquired, in chorus with several other of the musicians. The man hurriedly replied: 'Oh, nothing at all. I'm only wounded in one of the fingers of my left hand. I'm off to have it dressed and will return again.'

"But the light of inspiration had come to us. No unprotected march for us when our good angels had thrown such a good chance in our way. We seized the man and said, 'Get on the stretcher.' 'No, no,' he answered; 'only one of my fingers is hurt. I can get on faster myself. Why should I be carried? Do I walk with my hand? Let me go.'

"We merely repeated the order, 'Get on the stretcher.' He didn't heed us, and again we said more emphatically, 'Get on the stretcher.' Seeing he was obdurate, we made a bodily seizure of him and put him forcibly on the waiting stretcher.

"Then we beat a hasty retreat with our burden. We carried him down a long hill to a place of safety and we took good care to place our wounded soldier in a distant place of security. How were we to help it if the battle was nearly over when we returned to the field? I always tell the generals with whom I fought that I was always in advance of them—in the rear."

Baroness Rothschild's Mission.

Baroness Rothschild, like the Baroness Burdett Coutts, has a self imposed "mission" in the miserable East End of London. She has built blocks of model tenement houses in the Whitechapel district, which are rented at the rate of three per cent on the investment. Adjacent to the model houses is an excellent "club and library" building, with billiard room and music room, open to all tenants on payment of a penny, and apparently it is generally preferred to the gin palaces.

He Feared She Could.

Little Brother—How much do you weigh, Mr. Dangle.

Dangle—About 150 pounds, my man. Why do you ask?

"I heard sister tell ma that she was going to throw you over her shoulders if Mr. Fangle proposed, but I don't believe she can do it, do you?"

ELECTRICAL.

A patent has been taken out in France for an electric furnace for the rapid incineration of human remains.

An electric gyroscope has been devised in Paris and applied to show the rotation of the earth and to correct ships' compasses.

In Belgium the white insulators on telegraph poles are so frequently broken that grayish brown ones are being used to replace them.

The welding of the spokes of metallic wheels to the hubs by means of electricity has recently been proposed, and a process patented.

The new underground electric railway in London is held to be a departure that makes an important development in electric traction and a distinct advance.

Soap makers are experimenting on the electrolysis of sea salt solutions, with a view of obtaining caustic soda, from which to prepare the soda used in the manufacture of soap.

Incandescent lamps placed near the ceiling will cause it to blacken, contrary to general belief. The blackening is due to a current of hot air which deposits black particles on contact with a cold surface.

It is said that if a chain were made of alternate links of platinum and silver, and a strong electric current passed through, the platinum links would become red hot and the silver remain comparatively cool.

Electric motors are now used in driving bread mixing machinery as well as in making wheat into flour. Bread is also baked by electricity. Wheat is not produced by electricity, but it can be consumed by that agent.

A remarkable invention has been made in Australia. Glass tubes project before railway trains, and if they are broken by an obstacle an electric movement is applied to the brakes, bringing the train immediately to a standstill.

From San Francisco comes the news that a Chinaman, Wong Ching Wah, has constructed a telephone which is superior to any in existence, and which, moreover, avoids, so it is asserted, any infringement on the Bell patent. Details are not forthcoming.

The greatest electric road which has been planned is the one proposed in Russia, between St. Petersburg and Archangel, a distance of 500 miles. The plan is to erect stations along the route for the generation of electricity. The estimated cost is only about $15,000 a mile.

It requires about three seconds to transmit an electrical signal through the Atlantic cable. The speed at which electricity travels amounts to several thousand miles per second, but the electrostatic resistance of the cable reduces this speed to about 1,000 miles per second.

Electrical science has made a greater advance in the last 20 years than in all the 600 historic years preceding. More is discovered in one day now than in a thousand years of the middle ages. We find all sorts of work for electricity to do. We make it carry our messages, drive our engine, ring our door bell, and scare the burglar; we take it as a medicine, light our gas with it, see by it, hear from it, talk with it, and now we are beginning to teach it to write.—[Professor Elisha Gray.

HOW THEY WROTE.

Bulwer wrote his first novels in full dress.

Tasso wrote his finest piece in the lucid intervals of madness.

Cæsar composed his famous commentaries, it is said, on horseback.

Racine composed his verses while walking about, reciting them in a loud voice.

Milton, before commencing his great work, invoked the influence of the Holy Spirit.

Bacon knelt down before composing his great work and prayed for light from heaven.

Sully is said to have been able to dictate to four secretaries at a time without difficulty.

Rousseau had the greatest difficulty in composing his works, being extremely defective in the gift of memory.

Camœns composed his verses with the roar of battle in his ears, for the Portuguese poet was a soldier and a brave one.

Bentley composed after playing a prelude on the organ or while taking his "antejentacular" or "post prandial" walks.

Rabelais composed his "Life of Gargantua" at Bulay in the company of Roman cardinals and under the eyes of the Bishop of Paris.

Rousseau wrote his works early in the morning, La Sage at midday, Bryon at midnight. Aristotle awoke early and worked until he slept.

Pope never could compose well without first declaiming for some time at the top of his voice, and thus rousing his nervous system to its fullest extent.

Calvin studied in his bed. Every morning at 5 or 6 o'clock he had books, manuscripts, and papers carried to him there, and he worked on for hours together.

Buffon, in writing his book, used pages divided into five distinct columns. In the first column he wrote out the first draft; in the second he corrected and improved, and so on to the fifth.

Voltaire was a most impatient writer, and usually had the first half of a work set up in type before the second half was written. He always had several works in the course of composition at the same time.

The Depopulation of France.

In France at present there are 2,000,000 households in which there has been no child; 2,500,000 in which there was one child; 2,300,000, two children; 1,500,000, three; about 1,000,000, four; 550,000, five; 330,000, six, and 200,000 seven or more.—[Pittsburg Dispatch.

It has been discovered that glass is capable of being turned into fine cloth, which can be worn without the slightest discomfiture next the skin.

I. K. KRICKBAUM,
Administrator.

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Lidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.
